

Resources for students looking to build their financial literacy!

ONLINE LEARNING TOOL

Khan Academy - Personal Finance

Free online courses covering budgeting, saving, investing, and understanding credit. Self-paced learning perfect for busy students.

website:

www.khanacademy.org/finance
email: support@khanacademy.org
Free courses available 24/7

NATIONAL ORGANIZATION

MyMoney.gov is a federal website dedicated to teaching financial basics such as earning, saving, investing, borrowing, and protecting money. It offers beginner-friendly tools and guidance that are ideal for students just starting to learn about personal finance.

Website: MyMoney.gov
Phone: 1-800-FED-INFO
Email:

LOCAL RESOURCE

Junior Achievement of OKI Partners is a local Cincinnati-based organization that provides financial literacy, entrepreneurship, and career readiness programs for students. They offer hands-on learning experiences that teach budgeting, saving, and financial decision-making, making them especially valuable for high school students.
Phone: (513) 346-7100
Website: <https://jausaja.org>

REGIONAL HELP

University of Cincinnati Financial Aid Office
Phone: 513-556-1000
Email: enrollmentservices@uc.edu
Helps students understand college financial aid, scholarships, student loan options, and billing, even if you aren't a student!

Website:
<https://www.uc.edu/about/financial-aid/contact.html>

Additional Resource

The CFPB offers tools and resources to help young people build strong financial habits early. Topics include saving, managing money, and understanding credit. This is a valuable resource if you are preparing for financial independence.

Website: www.consumerfinance.org
Phone: (855) 411-2372
Email: info@consumerfinance.gov